Movements of the Fillibusters.

A New Orleans letter dated July 3d, says in relation to the movements of Walker and the fillibusters, at the Bay Islands:

Of the movements of Gen. Walker and his men on the Island of Ruatan, we have yet learned very little, notwithstanding the facts that a schooner arrived a few days ago from that Patch of tropical terra firma, which is about as well known to the general public of this country, as if it formed one of the Fejee group. It is stated that not more than two hundred men are with Walker on the Island, some of the original arrivals having gone over to the main land on business of their own. In the meantime, the little fillibuster and his big fillibuster adherents were taking things coolly and easily at last accounts, wire-working perhaps among the natives, or waiting to see what action the government of Honduras would take in regard to establishing practical sovereignly over the island. The natives, it is said, are bitterly opposed to coming under the Hondurian authority, and count upon the formidable prowess of their warlike visitors as a sure guarantee of their independence; but it must be remembered that free negroes and mulattoes form the great mass of the population of Ruatan, and that this class of people are remarkable when they have possession of the country, for extreme jealousy of the encroachments and influence of the whites, and that so soon as they should feel themselves secure in the possession of the island, there would be no further security for their deliverers, nor indeed for any white residents. Walker, it is alleged, wished only to make Ruatan a rendezvous for his men and munitions of war, in which to prepare the programme of another Nicaraguan campaign, and at the same time to place himself in a position to compel Honduras to afford him safe conduct through her territory.

compel Honduras to afford him safe conduct through her territory.

A CITY RAILROAD UNDERGROUND IN LONDON.—The London Mustrated Newsontains a description of the tunnel now building under the streets of London, of the purpose of connecting the city with a series of railways at the north of the Thames. To have a railway after the American fashion, passing through a densely populous district, and crossing on a level and over-crowded thoroughfare, was considered utterly out of the question. Therefore, the plan was resorted to of avoiding the surface altogether, leaving that to the ordinary local traffic and travel, and going entirely under the city with all the passenger and freight trains. The tunnel was constructed by making an open cut from the surface of the street down the distance required, building the arrhway, and then replacing the surface—a cheaper mode than unneling. The work has been contracted for, and is now in progress—the company ongaged in it have a capital of four millions two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, in shares of fifty dollars each. To avoid any annoyance from smoke, or the combustion of fuel in the tunnel, the traffic is to be worked by light locomotives of a novel and ingenious construction. They have no firebox, but will be charged with hot water and steam at a certain pressure, to be supplied by fixed boilers at the termini, and will be furnished with a large heater to assist in maintaining the required temperature. It is believed that each locomotive can be supplied with power sufficient to run the whole tunnel distance. The tunnel is expected to be finished and in working order by 1862.

AMOURS OF A YOUNG SHAVE HEAD. The

Amours of a Young Shave Head Tomoiseo Alta, gives the following account of the extent to which the New York girls have become fascinated with Shave Head Tommy, attache to the Japanese Embassy. Is it not awful?

"This visit of the Japanese has placed our New York ladies in rather an equivocal light before their countrymen. Amongst the attaches of the Embassy, there was a young lad of about seventeen, of that class which in European society would just bring him within the sphere of gentility; this youth, wherever the Embassy sojourned, was the especial object of attraction; he was one of the interpreters, spoke our language somewhat intelligibly, and being of cleanly habits, and somewhat of a wag made wonderful way with the ladies at Washington, defind way with the ladies at Washington, defind way with the ladies at Washington, defor the young ladies of New York to afford that this young foreigner was so beset with amatory effusions, letters of rendezvous, and unequivocal propositions of such a nature as to make morality revolt from their contemplation, that it is stated, under the authority of one of the Naval officers in charge of the Embassy, a pile of letters a foot mensure. Ment in height, were daily read by him, and returned to the parents or friends of the writers. Where are we to look for the source of this depravity? Are we not to find it in the false education, the unrestricted and over confident habits under which our young country women are permitted to grow up. Be it as it may, the unqualified and disgraceful statement has gone out uncontradicted to the world, and there is not a city on this continent, or in Europe, which will not draw its own conclusions."

An Affecting Scene. "Not many years since," says Fraser's Magazine, a cer-nent, or in Europe, which will not draw its own conclusions."

An Affecting Scene. "Not many years since," says Fraser's Magazine, a certain miners, working far underground, came upon the body of a poor fellow who had perished in the suffocating pit forty years before. Some chemical agent to which the body had been subjected an agent prepared in the laboratory of nature had effectually arrested the progress of decay. They brought it to the surface, and for a while, till it crumbled away through exposure to the atmosphere, it lay there, the image of a fine sturdy young man. No convulsion had passed over the face in death—the features were tranquil; the hair as black as jet. No one recognized the face—a generation had grown up since the day on which the miner went down his shaft for the last time. But a totering old woman, who had hurried from her cottage at hearing the news, came up, and she knew again the face which through all these years she had never quite forgot. The poor miner was to have been her husband the day after that on which he died. They were rough people, of course, who were looking on; a liberal education and refined feelings are not deemed essential to the man whose work it is to get up coals, or even tin; but there were no dry eyes there when that gray-headed old pillgrim cast her. self upon the youthful corpse, and Poorted out to its deaf ear many words of eudeafment unused for forty years. It was a touching contrast—the one so olds the other so young. They had both been young these long years ago; but time had gone on with the living and stood still with the dead."

long years ago; but time had gone on with the living and stood still with the dead."

Irishmen in Italy.—We have noticed the fact that near a thousand Irishmen have enlisted in the Pope's army, under General Lamoriciere. This Irish regiment is raw and undisciplined, but rough and supposed to be extremely ready. Their enlistment for a foreign service, under the very none of John Bull, who made no bones of his dislike of the Pope, has aroused the attention of the government. A proclamation has been issued from Dublin Castle prohibiting such enlistments in the strongest terms. But the proclamation has had but little effect, and recruiting for the Pope went briskly on in Ireland, at last accounts. It affords an instructive commentary on British consistency, to reflect, that while actively endeavoring to prevent any aid being sent to the Pope, England winks at the great interest which is pushing the claims of Garibaldii in London and elsewhere. The Attorney General of England has just declared that a subscription to supply aid, money, men and arms, to assist Garibaldii in is brilliant expedition against the King of Naples, is not legally punishable.

Indian Fight.—Reports reached Carson Cine that the that a commany under vanish the king of the consistency that the commany under vanish the king of the carson.

legally punishable.

Indian Fight.—Reports reached Carson City, Aug. 1st, that a company under command of Lance Nightingale, numbering twenty-eight men, have had a fight with the Indians near Black Rock, in which the findians were victorious, driving the Americans back, and killing two men. It is said that the different companies that are in that vicinity prospecting, will concentrate their forces, and give the Indians battle at once. They will have a force of one hundred men, all well armed. Large numbers of Indians are alresseen on the emigrant route in the vicio. of the sink of Carson and Robert's Creek. Although they profess friendship, their actions lead to the belief that trouble may soon be expected in that vicinity.

Assaying Silver Ore.

The recent discovery of silver ore near Fort Hope has caused considerable inquiry to be made respecting the best mode of extracting the silver from the ore. Besides, from various points north on the mainland as well as on this Island, specimens of silver ore have been obtained. One specimen from the Fort Simpson region that we have seen, on being assayed, proved far richer than the assays of the Greenwood lead. The existence within British territory of valuable leads of silver ore being a matter placed entirely beyond doubt, we extract from the San Francisco Alta two modes for the extraction of the silver, which, as a description of the latest as well as the most primitive process, cannot fail to be of general interest at the present juncture. Much doubt has been raised in California as to the renuineness of the San Francisco assays. It has been asserted there that of two samples from the same lead one yielded a large per centage of silver, whilst the other yielded nothing. Whether the fault of samples or assayers, is not clear. The process, however, which we publish will, we presume enable the silver miner to test the ore, and thus form a correct estimate of its value for himself. Both the gentlemen who have written on assaying silver to the Alla are German miners, trained to the business; therefore what they set forth is deserving of every consideration. Mr. G. Kastel treats of a new mode of extracting the silver, called the MacCulloch process. He says:

I had an opportunity to examine one of ne metalliferous bricks, as prepared in Mr. IcCulloch's process. The mixture con-

I had an opportunity to examine one of the metalliferous bricks, as prepared in Mr. McCulloch's process. The mixture consists, as it is said, of 2,000 pounds of ore, 160 pounds of sawdust, 160 pounds of ore, 160 pounds of sawdust, 160 pounds of charcoal, and 100 pounds of clay. The specimen I had contained coal instead of charcoal. These bricks were exposed to the fire for six hours.

According to the general opinion, the principal object of the operation is, to convert the silver out of its original combination into the metallic state. This has to be done by the action of sawdust and coal. It seems that the carbon will protect the silver and sulphur against oxidation, the sulphur is carried off by dissolution, partly in combination with some products of burning sawdust and coal, and leaves the silver in a metallic state.

sardied on by discovering is carried on by the solution of burning sawdust and coal, and leaves the silver in a metallic state.

That, or a similar theory, may be proved by an experiment in a proper retort, or on a small scale, where the management is entirely in one's control; but if the mixture is exposed to a draft, when a part of undecomposed ar comes in contact with the bricks, we get a very different result. One part of the sulphur is turned into sulphuric acid, and the silver to a sulphate. If the heat increases to a relatively high degree, a great part of the sulphate will be decomposed, leaving silver as an oxide. The same remark will apply to the copper, only that the decomposition takes place at a lower heat.

The proportion of sulphate of silver, and the metallic gold and silver (including the oxide of silver) in that piece of metalliferous brick, which I examined, is interesting to all who are engaged in experiments with that method, because the extraction of silver has to be regulated according to its nature in the ore. There were 56 parts of silver in the sulphate, and 24 parts of gold and silver in metallic and oxidized condition.

I am sure that this proportion may be very different in different bricks, according to the circumstances in burning; but it shows plainly, what a delicate operation the roasting process is, and what loss of silver the further operation is exposed to. If all the silver could be brought into one or the other condition, then it were all right; but one half of it is soluble in water, and the other in a metallic state and insoluble.

Mr. Lewis Wollwebber writes to the Alta, in reply to a writer from Washoe who stated

Mr. Lewis Wollwebber writes to the Alta, in reply to a writer from Washoe who stated that the Mexicans succeeded in extracting more silver, by melting the ores in an adobe furnace, than the San Francisco assayers had made from the same ores in their says; but he denies the assertion of the Washoe writer, and gave the following very primitive Mexican process adapted only to very rich ores:

wery rich ores:

When the Mexicans have rich silver ores
—only rich ores will pay—which they intend to take through the process of melting, or amalgamation, they prepare them for the same by a very primitive, costly, and defective reasting.

The pulverized ore is mixed ad libitum with pulverized charcoal, with sawdust, (if it can be had,) or dry and crumbled dung of horned cattle. They add so much clay and water as necessary; mix it well, and form balls of about three inches diameter, and leave them for several days in the sun, till they are quite dry. When they prepare for melting, they add often native sesqui-carbonate of soda. From these balls they form a From these balls they form melting, they and often native seequi-canonate of soda. From these balls they form a cone of about two feet diameter, and the same height, filling the intervals between the balls with small pieces of the above named dung. Now begins the building of the kiln of bricks or adobes. A circle of them is laid at a distance of three inches around the base of the said cone, leaving an open space of four inches between the ends of the bricks. In this way circles of bricks are laid, one upon another, to the height of four to six inches above the point of the cone, forming a circular perpendicular wall, with as many pigeon holes as bricks, were used. The upper empty part of the kiln is now filled in the same way as the cone was built, and the whole covered with charcoal or dung, and set on fire.

It is very obvious that only small quantities of ore can be roasted in this way.

The above furnace is in proportion to the roasting apparatus. The dimensions are generally two and a half to three feet high,

The above turnace is in proportion to the roasting apparatus. The dimensions are generally two and a half to three feet high, and one and a half by one foot wide. The furnace stands a campaign of two days, and if the adobes are of the best quality, it may stand three days. The poor Mexican miners who reduce their ores in this way, grind their slacks afterwards, and wash out what metallic posticular they can obtain by that imperlic particles they can obtain by that imperfect operation.

In order to follow either process, the ores must be pulverised first. A good mortal will answer that purpose, and with charcoal sawdust, and clay-all of which are easily obtained at Fort Hope-metalliferous bricks may be made, and the Greenwood and Empire leads be thus thoroughly and speedily prospected.

Should any of our readers be in possession of information respecting the most approved processes of testing or assaying silver ores, re would be glad if furnished with it, to lay it before the public.

SUDDEN DEATH.—On Thursday evening a Chinaman died under the following cir-The deceased, with three or cumstances: four of his friends, who live in a small house beyond the ravine, appeared unusually happy and cheerful during all the day and up to nine o'clock in the evening. About this time they all went to bed. Soon after he retired the other inmates heard a noise proceeding from his room. They lighted a candle, proceeded to his bedroom, and found him with jaws rigidly contracted, the fore-arms partially uplifted, and in convulsions. He died in half an hour afterwards. Intelligence was conveyed to Dr. Dickson, the Coroner, yesterday, of the occurrence, who at once instituted a searching inquiry, in order to determine whether there were any grounds for supposing that there had been foul play in the premises; but having satis-fied himself that death resulted from apoplexy, he declined holding an inquest. The deceased came down from the mines about a week ago, and intended returning by the next boat. The body was interred last evening by his Chinese friends.

SILVER CLAIMS .- Inquiry has been made in reference to the size of a silver claim in British Columbia. Nothing very definite we believe has yet been settled upon by the government. Mr. O'Reilly at Fort Hope has however made one hundred feet the length of a claim with an additional fifty to the party who makes the discovery. This is rather too small; we would therefore suggest that at least two hundred feet be the size, with the right to a discoverer to hold two claims. In Washoe mines such is the rule, with the proviso that it must be worked. The proviso is so important that it should not be overlooked here—and thus allow valuable discoveries to be locked up for an indefinite period.

Wouldn't Swear, anyhow.—Michael Martin complained of a Queen Charlotte Island Indian for having broken a lookingglass. The Indian was arrested, and yesterday morning appeared in the police court to answer to the charge. The complainant was asked to take the customary oath, but he declined doing so. asked if he was not a Christian, he replied yes, but that he had started out in life determined never to take an oath, and he had never yet done so and never would. His honor instantly dismissed the case.

UNPLEASANT .- A young gentleman while out riding yesterday morning, in the vicinity of Clover Point, was considerably surprised at having his cap suddenly lifted from his head and cast to the ground. Upon an examination, he discovered that it had been perforated by a rifle ball, fired by some man who was shooting at some object on the beach. The gentleman made haste to town, fearing, no doubt, that he might lose his head, in addition to his cap, if he stayed

WHISKY SELLER .- A warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of a Bengalese, named Louis De Castro, who is charged with selling whisky to natives. The testimony against him is from Indians, who claim to have been salesmen for him, while Louis remained at home and manufactured

Letter from Nanaimo.
NANAIMO, August 12, 1860. EDITOR BRITISH COLONIST .- H. M. S. Termagant left this morning for Victoria. She was scarcely out of sight, when three men who were working on the wharf, were fired at by Indians three times, and one fired at by Indians three times, and one ball passed close to one of the men's ear. The men at once beat a retreat, and could scarcely be got to work there again, until they were assured that the Indians had left. They are the same Indians who left Victoria the other day. It is really too bad to allow these savages their arms until they pass this place, for we are quite unprotected. They were told to leave, but they said they would leave when they were ready. They know our defenceless position well and I have no doubt will take advantage of it.

WHISKY IN THE BUSH .- A couple of gen tlemen, while out walking on McKenzie's road, last evening, came upon a party of four Indians, each one of whom had under his charge a ten-gallon keg of whisky. A modern philosopher has estimated that to every gallon of whisky consumed there is one fight; consequently, there were just forty , and possibly one or two murders, in that lot of tangle-leg.

Augmon To-Day .- Seven bales of damaged English blankets will be sold by auc tion this morning, at 11 o'clock, by P. M. Backus, at his salesroom, Yates street.

During the summer the proprietor say that he will spare no expense in keeping of Ice on hand, and those that are fond of a e Drink, such as Sherry Cobblers, Mint Julips, 8 Emashes, etc., will please call.

Mr. Gordon, from the Election Committee said that in the opinion of the committee, the person who lost the case of De Cosmos vs. Franklin, would have to pay the costs.

Mr. Watdington said there were no other

Mr. Waddington said there were no other expenses to pay but that of clerk—each party paid his own counsel.

The Speaker agreed with Mr. Waddington.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the bill to improve the streets of the town of Victoria, Mr. Waddington in the chair.

Mr. Cary offered the following section:

That the Executive advertise three times in some newspaper or newspapers published in the colony for tenders—the work to be given to the lowest bidder.

Mr. Helmoken proposed as an addition that the contractors be compelled to keep to work in repair for 12 months.

The Chairman was of opinion that six months was a long enough time for the contractors to engage to keep the work in repair.

repair.

The following addition was made to Mr. Cary's proposition: "The contract shall be for making the improvements, as well as for keeping permanent improvements made under the act in good repair," which was adopted.

Mr. Cary proposed the following clause
The Executive shall not expend more than the sum of £2000 in carrying out the provisions of this act. Carried.
Mr. Franklin hoped to see certificates or serip issued to the contractors after the work is completed—otherwise it might cost 25 is completed—otherwise it might cost 25 per cent. more.

Mr. Cary opposed the system of scrip. Put a clause in the bill allowing the Governor to borrow £2000. He will then go into the market and secure the amount at low rates of interest; but if we issue scrip to contractors, we shall have to pay roundly for the credit thus given us.

The Chairman agreed with Mr. Cary's views. It certainly was the most economical plan.

oral plan.

Mr. Franklin wished to see the chaingang employed on the work of breaking stone to macadamize the streets.

The Chairman believed the convicts might better be employed breaking stone for the streets than in filling up the harbor was they are at present.

or the streets than in filling up the hardas they are at present.

Mr. Foster was opposed to the system oputting convict labor against that of fre men. The effect of the chain-gang workin in our streets was very bad. The control the convicts should be left as at present, the hands of the Executive and the polic commissioner. Keep them to work breaking stone; but do not put them to work in

Mr. Franklin replied that he was per, Frankin replied that he was not ex-pressing his own opinion, but that of his constituents, when he favored the chain-gang movement; he was satisfied his constituents fully agreed with his course.

The following is the substance of the

That a tax of five-eighgts of one per cent.

on the market value of real estate within the electoral limits of the town of Victoria; prison labor is to be employed at the discretion of the Executive; the tax is to levied and collected at the same time as the colonial revenue; the tax, when collected, is to be praid into the treasury as a special (und). mal revenue; the tax, when contected, is to be paid into the treasury as a special fund; the treasurer is empowered to raise a loan of £2000, to be borrowed in such sums as the treasurer may deem proper, and at the lowest rates of interest possible; the loan is to be repaid by the 31st day of May, 1861.

The committee here rose and reported suggests and the House adjungted to Mon-progress, and the House adjourned to Monday, at 3 o'clock, P. M.

BADLY INJURED .- A man, whose name we could not learn, while driving a horse dray along Government street, near Pandora, yesterday afternoon, was thrown from the vehicle by the horse suddenly shying at some article in the street, and received some very severe injuries in the head. Dr. Trimble dressed the unfortu nate man's wounds, and he was conveyed to the Royal Hospital. The extent of his injuries are not yet known.

A GREAT MOVEMENT IN SODA WATER Yesterday morning, a horse attached to Phillips' soda water wagon took fright on Yates street, and dashed around the corner of Government street at full speed. He was finally stopped in front of the Colonist office, but not until a large number of bot tles of soda water had been broken, and the contents mingled with the dust of the street.

Snelling.—This man, convicted of man-slaughter in the Court of Assizes, and sened to four years' imprisonment, with hard labor, was yesterday morning put to work in the chain-gang. He is delighted with what he considers his narrow escape from death, and speaks in terms of gratitude and praise of his counsel and the Chief Jus-Snelling in a very lucky man.

THE BARK GRECIAN .- The case of assault, preferred against the Captain of the bark Grecian, will be heard this morning before the police magistrate.

Sergeant Taylor nabbed an Indian yesterday morning, while in the act of car-rying a five-gallon keg of whisky across the bridge. The whisky was confiscated.

Wealth of Old Romans.—The debt of A. Milo amounted to about $28,000,000; Julius Cosar, when setting out for Spain, is reported to have said himself that he was $10,000,000 worse than nothing. When he first entered Rome, after crossing the Rubicon, he took from the public treasury $5,500,000, but at the end of the civil war put over $24,000,000 in it. He purchased the friendship of Curio with a bribe of over $2,500,000, and of the Consul L. Paulus with half that sum. Crassus was worth in real estate over $8,000,000, and about as much in money, furniture and slaves. Seneca was worth over $20,000,000. Lentulus, the augur, $16,000,000. Augustus raised, by the testament of his friends, nearly $191,000,000. Tiberius left at his death nearly $109,000,000, which Caligula spent in less than one year; and Vespassian, at his accession, said he required for the support of the State over $1,614,000,000. Nevertheless, though greatly enriched by conquests, imperial Rome never came into the full inheritance of the chief wealth of the East, and the larger quantities of the precious metals have remained excluded from the calculations of ancient historians.

Southdown superposed from Kenneth Mc.

SOUTHDOWN SHEEP .- Thirty-six South SOUTHDOWN SHEEP.—Thirty-six South-down rams, purchased from Kenneth McKenzie, of Craigflower farm, Vancouver Island, arrived here on Saturday night, on the steamer Pacific, consigned to William Kohl, Esq. A certified pedigree of the animals, duly attested before George Pearkes, Commissioner of Deeds at Victoria, represents that they are pure blooded, having been got from premium rams and ewes, imported by Mr. McKenzie, from the stock of H. H. Burns, Esq., Sidcup, Kent, England. This importation will prove an important acquisition to the stock-growing interests of the State—S. F. Alta.

the State—S. F. Alta.

A Broker's Pocket Picked of a Fortune.—At Liverpool, two experienced London thieves picked the pocket of a broker of £11,000 (or $55,000) in large notes, just as he was entering the bank. An hour later, a London detective who happened to be in town, recognized one of them at the postoffice, where he was found to have registered a letter to a lady in London. Following the man up they arrested both; following the letter they recovered the entire amount of money; and in almost as little time as it takes to say it, the pickpockets were exported for ten and seven years respectively.

AUCTION ON MONDAY .- J. A. McCrea will sell by auction on Monday next, at 11 A. M., at the warehouse of Messrs. Little & Co., (formerly Myers' Wharf), 10,000 lbs bacon; and alterwards at his salesroom, a quantity of apples, butter, hams, groceries, and live stock.

Prepared only by ... W. D. MOSES.

FOR THE TOILET.

This Invigorator is most particularly for Ladies after Illness, to be used with the Oil prepared by the privator. First saturate the head with the Invigorator; rub well with a hair-brush; then oil. It will also relieve the headache, and give the hair a darker glossy color, and the free use of it will keep both the skin and hair in a healtry state.

Ladies will find the Invigorator a great addition to the toilet, both in consideration of its delicate and agreeable perfume and the great facility it affords in dressing the hair, which, when moist with it, can be place, whether plain or in curls. When used on children's heads, it lays the foundation for a good head of hair.
